EVIDENCE ALL IN

The Arguments Will Occupy the Week and the Case Will Go to the Jury Saturday.

Chicago, Oct. 11.—The Lostgert trial came to a sudden and unexpected close today. Witnesses which the defense had called in rebuttal failed to respond when their names were called and finally ex-Judge Vincent announced to the court that the case of the defense was all in. "We rest," concluded Lostgert's chief counsel. A sigh of relief was heard in the court room. After brief consultation by the counsel in the case it was agreed to begin arguments to the jury this afternoon.

Assistant State's Attorney McEwen opened. He will be followed by Attorney Phelan. Ex-Judge Vincent will close for the defense and State's Attorney Deneen will close for the prosecution. The case will go the jury probably next Saturday night.

THE DROUTH BROKEN

The Showers are General and Copious and Promise to Continue for Some Time.

Chicago, Oct. 11.—Rain is falling generally to-day throughout the parched belt of the western states, and the long disastrous drought has at last been broken. Reports from Kansas, Nebraska, Iowa, Illinois, Missouri, Arkansas and Minnesota show quite general rains are still falling, with indications of continuing during the next twenty-four hours. The rain in Nebraska is the first of any consequence that has fallen in that state for six weeks, while Kansas is receiving her first wetting for two months. According to the weather bureau an unusually extensive area of low barometer extends from the Rocky Mountains eastward over the Mississippi and Ohio valleys and the lake region.

Within the area since Saturday morning general showers have fallen. The heaviest rain fall reported is at Wichita, Kas., where 2.00 inches were registered. The temperature is above the normal in nearly all sections except the southwest.

THEY PROTEST.

Citizens of Hamm Opposes Increased Taxation.

Turn Out in a Body and Lay Their Grievances Before Popular Auditor.

Hoxie, Oct. 11.—A large procession of tradesmen, headed by the proprietor of Hamm, and the president of the chamber of commerce, marched to the office of the auditor of the interior this afternoon to protest and confer with the government regarding the increased taxation. Premier Rudini, who is also member of the interior, received a committee representing the tradesmen and promised that all possible would be done to promote friendly relations and greater equity between the tax collectors and the tax-payers. In the meantime, while a large crowd of people had collected around the ministry, and angry shouts were heard and some of them present tore up paving stones and otherwise assumed threatening attitudes. The cause of the police to make an attempt to disperse the violent portion of the crowd, and in the conflict which followed six policemen were injured and one rioter was killed.

HOTEL DESTROYED.

The Famous Windsor, at French Lick Springs.

Five Hundred Out in the Bakery and Seen the Entire Structure is Consumed.

French Lick Springs, Ind., Oct. 11.—The Windsor hotel, the leading hostelry of this place, was destroyed by fire this morning, about 3 o'clock, and was a total loss, together with its contents. The fire originated in the bakery, spread rapidly and in two hours the handsome building was in ruins, nothing being left standing except the amusement pavilion and the Cliffton. The telegraph office, News office, solid orange building, bakery, bath rooms and the kitchen were total loss. The loss will reach $40,000. No casualties among the guests or employes are reported. The amount of insurance cannot be learned.

RAMON BLANCO

Outlines His Policy in Dealing With Cuba.

The New Captain General Explains the Favorable Conditions of the People and Will Grant Equal Rights.

Madrid, Oct. 11.—Gen. Ramon Blanco, the new captain general of Cuba, announces that he will act with great energy against the insurgents and will employ all political means to restore equality of treatment to the various sections of the community. The captain general adds that he has the greatest desire to end the horrors of war and to establish peace by the system which he adopted in 1879. The inhabitants of Palma, the birthplace of General Weyler, are preparing to give him an ovation on his return from Cuba.

WORK OF A CRANK.

Chicago Chief of Police Receives a Remarkable Letter.

The Writer Says She is the Mrs. Louise Lostgert, for Whom Meanwhile the Sausage Man is Being Tried.

Chicago, Oct. 11.—A letter addressed to Chief of Police Kipley and purporting to be from Mrs. Louise Lostgert was received at police headquarters today. The letter was dated October 9 and was sent from New York city. Little if any attention will be paid to it by the police. The signature is spelled "Lostegrant," and this alone they say is enough to brand the letter as a fraud. The letter is quite long and is written in English, which it is said the missing woman was unable to speak. It states that the writer is now living with a family at 304 Palisade avenue, Jersey City, and that she was doing chamber work at the Metropole hotel. The writer implored Chief Kipley to save Lostgert, as she said he was innocent of the charge against him. The letter stated that Mrs. Lostgert would never return to her husband because she was afraid he would kill her and that she was going to Germany as soon as she could earn money enough to take here there. Her whereabouts since her disappearance last May is also given. According to the letters Mrs. Lostgert first went to Wisconsin, then to Flint, Mich., then to Detroit and from there to New York City.

GREAT STRIKE.

All Federated Trades People to Be Called Out.

Over 100,000 Men Will Show Their Sympathy With the Striking Engineers by Quitting Work.

Denver, Oct. 11.—The secretary of the federate trades, comprising thirty important industries, announces that the executive committee has definitely decided to call out all its members in sympathy with the struggle of the engineers against their employers on Friday next, when it is estimated that a total of 100,000 men will be out of work on account of the great labor dispute.

SHAMROCKS WIN.

Defeated Spy Runs in the Opening Game of the Fort Wayne Amateur Contest.

At Lakeside park yesterday afternoon the initial game of the local cup series was played, the Shamrocks defeating the Spy Runs. The game was for the gate receipts. Green, who started in to pitch for the champions, was hit hard, and in the sixth inning Robbins went into the box, and pitched excellent ball. Quinn did the pitching for the Shamrocks and in seven innings he was found for but three hits. In the fifth Quinn was hit on the wrist by a pitched ball, and he retired in the beginning of the seventh, his right arm being badly swollen, and Collars went into the box. He was very wild and this was the reason that the Spy Runs increased their score in the last innings of the game. Hollinger, Hoffer and Ewing put up good ball back of the bat. Hayes and Collars did the best stickwork for the Shamrocks. Both teams put up a good fielding game, the Spy Runs' errors being made mostly at second base. Cooke, of the Fort Wayne team, was a spectator at the game and greatly admired the work of Hayes, the Shamrocks' fast fielder. Mike Tierney and Howard Thomas held the indicators. Their work was first class. The score:

Shamrocks	5	0	0	2	1	0	0	2	—	14

Earned runs—Shamrocks, 7; Spy Runs 2. Hits—Shamrocks, 15; Spy Runs, 6. Errors—Shamrocks, 8; Spy Runs, 6. Batteries—For Shamrocks, Quinn, Collars and Hollinger; for Spy Runs, Green, Robbins and Hoffer and Ewing.

NOTES.

Stephen Haines took a pick up team of Robinson Park league players out to Concordia college Saturday afternoon, and defeated the Concordias. Haines and Hewitt were in the points for the town boys. The score was 18 to 14.

Garrett won out in a walk from the Maroons Saturday afternoon. Wayne pitched for Garrett. The Maroons could not locate his curves, hitting him safely for but six hits. McDarby and Hayes, of the Shamrocks, who played on the Maroon team, made five of the hits. Score: 11 to 3.

Last Saturday evening a merry crowd of young people assembled at the home of the Misses Smith, of Comer, to remind Miss Nettie of her birthday anniversary. The house was thrown open to the guests and an enjoyable time was had by all present. Dancing, cards, music and games of all descriptions were indulged in to help pass away the pleasant hours. At midnight an elegant supper was served.

Miss Angy Manning Taylor will lecture before the Epworth league at St. Paul's M. E. church this evening. Everybody in that part of the city invited to be present.

COSSIO'S RESCUER.

Escape of Cuban Girl Engineered by a Newspaper Man.

Charles Duval, Correspondent, Effects His Bold Plans for the Abduction of the Cuba Prisoner.

Key West, Oct. 11.—Information comes from Havana that the liberation of Evangelina Cossio Cisneros from the Recojidas prison was effected by Charles Duval, a newspaper correspondent. In relating his story he says:

"I came here three weeks ago, having been ordered to go to Cuba and rescue from her prison Miss Cisneros. I arrived at Cienfuegos late in September, telegraphed to a known and trusted man in Santiago de Cuba to meet me in Havana, and then went to Sagua Chara, where I picked up a second man, known to be as grisly as Sahara, and then proceeded to Havana. Here I remained in almost absolute concealment. Both the men who accompanied me—Joseph Hernandez and Harrison Mallory—pursued the same course and remained quiet until all plans had been completed.

"The fact that Miss Cisneros was inconsiderately made the attempt at first seem beyond the possibility of success, but we finally through Hernandez succeeded in sending a note to her through an old negress who called upon one of her friends in the prison. This note was got through two hands to Miss Cisneros, and later a package of dragged sweets. Having established communication with her, we began work without losing a day. The rest of the escape has already been told."

INGERSOLL'S CONVERSION.

Claims Great Revelation Has Caused Infidel Will Soon Embrace the Bible.

Chicago, Oct. 11.—Robert Ingersoll will visit Chicago in the near future and preach a sermon endorsing liberal Christianity. This is the prediction of J. G. Leonard, a professor of occult science, who lives at 114 Warren avenue. Notwithstanding Colonel Ingersoll's many lectures on the Bible and his ridicule of the teachings, Mr. Leonard declares the great infidel will come to Chicago and tell his former audiences in humble and meek manner that there is a God, that the Bible tells the truth and that all should read and believe in it.

"Yes, it is true," said Professor Leonard, "that I have made a statement that Mr. Ingersoll will give up his abuse of the Bible. Why, I believe this I cannot say, but I will stake my reputation as a clairvoyant on this statement being true. If my word does not come true, then all I can say is that I have never told the truth in my life. The best proof will be to wait and see."

A GEORGIA REVIVAL.

People of Milledgeville Have Their Souls, Churches and Other Playing Devices.

Milledgeville, Ga., Oct. 11.—This city, the old capital of the state, is in the throes of the most extensive religious revival in its history.

For the last ten days services have stirred up the people until yesterday, when the frenzy reached its height in the determination on the part of many of the converts to destroy their property, which they considered had given them sinful pleasure.

An immense bonfire was built, and cards, checkers, dice, etc., were sent up in smoke. One convert destroyed 500 packs of cards, which he had just purchased for sale. The bonfire was in a prominent street of the town.

A HORRIBLE CRIME.

Demonstrated Creek Indian Is Hit a Club and Then Shot Dead.

Perry, O. T., Oct. 11.—James Wesnah, a demented Creek Indian, killed an old man by the name of Jones for fish bait.

A party of men came across the Indian while he was fishing on Dog creek, and later they found the body of the dead man. They took the Indian in charge and he confessed the crime. He was asked if he killed the man for his money and he answered in the negative and said he killed him for fish bait.

An examination of the Indian's fish basket showed that he had torn a formidable quantity of flesh from the legs and arms of the man and baited his fishing line.

HUSBAND ARRESTED.

Mrs. Depriester Killed and Her Home Fired at Canton, O.

Canton, Ohio, Oct. 11.—Mrs. Molly Depriester was killed yesterday, and her husband, William Depriester, is in jail to answer to the charge of murder. Maggie Greathouse lived with the family, and, it is said, caused trouble. She is held as a witness.

The remains of Mrs. Depriester were found in the yard, charred almost beyond recognition. The evidence shows that she was struck on the head and her remains set on fire, oil having been poured over the body and ignited.

HAS $100,000 TO BET.

Unpaid Millions Stake Van Wyck and Others Ready to Back It.

New York, Oct. 11.—Tammany has begun its bluffing trick with regard to betting unusually early this year. The announcement was made at the Hoffman house by David Gideon, of race track fame, that he had $100,000 to bet on Van Wyck's election, against $60,000 on the field. There were no takers, but it is a safe hazard to say that if there odds of five to four continue and the money is in sight there will be takers plenty. Riley Grannan also is offering money on Van Wyck, and the entire sporting contingent will lend every energy toward helping the tiger out.

REVERES PARNELL.

Ireland Pays Tribute to Memory of Her Dead Leader.

Sixth Anniversary of His Death Observed in Public Demonstration Was Not Funereal.

This was the sixth anniversary of his death, and at Dublin 10,000 Nationalists marched to Glasnevin cemetery, where the grave of the lamented chief was strewn story high with flowers and evergreens from all parts of Ireland.

It need hardly be said that no English flags were carried by the marchers, but there were numbers of harps and shamrocks, and scarcely a delegation appeared in line that did not proudly bear the stars and stripes of the United States.

Faction was forgotten, political differences was thrust aside, and no disturbance marred the patriotic display.

The demonstration was unique. Previous demonstrations have had strictly a funeral character, but, in accordance with the decision of the leaders, that of to-day was divested of all the trappings and suits of woe and converted into a triumphal procession, lively national airs replacing dirges.

YELLOW FEVER.

New Orleans, Oct. 11.—At 1 o'clock this afternoon the board of health announced eighteen new cases and two deaths.

Mobile, Ala., Oct. 11.—Three more fine new cases of yellow fever reported here today. No deaths.

WITH CASH AND A GUN.

How a Kansas Farmer Concluded a Mortgage on His Property.

Elsmore, Kas., Oct. 11.—A Pottawatomie county farmer went to a bank in this city Saturday and told the cashier that he wanted to pay a $1,200 mortgage that the bank held against his property.

The cashier looked up the mortgage, and, finding that it was drawing 9 per cent interest and was not due until next February, he told the farmer that the loan would have to run until maturity.

The farmer argued the matter, but the cashier was obdurate, whereupon the farmer laid the $1,200 on the counter, pulled a 44 caliber revolver, and notified the cashier that he intended to take up that mortgage forthwith.

When the cashier saw that the farmer meant business, he took the money, canceled the mortgage, and the farmer was out of debt for the first time since he came to Kansas.

WALES NO ARBITER.

Audience in Montreal to the Engineering Strike in Britain.

London, Oct. 11.—The prince of Wales has declined an invitation to mediate in the engineering strike. In the course of his letter of refusal, he says he deeply deplores the "disastrous state of affairs," but feels it would not be right or proper for him to attempt in any way to interfere or to mix himself therein.

A Schooner Foundered in Bermuda.

St. Petersburg, Oct. 11.—During an ascent of Mount Ararat, Armenia, by members of the recent Geological congress, Dr. Stieber, a professor of medicine, was frozen to death.

LOCAL LINES.

Misses Bessie Manaix and Annie O'Ryan went on their wheels to Avrela yesterday, where they were the guests of Miss Margie Sidan.

William Grodick, wife and daughter, left this morning for Denver, Col. Mr. and Mrs. Henry Grodick will leave Thursday for California.

D. J. Hunley has received a telegram announcing the death of his father, at Dunkirk, N. Y. Mr. Hunley and daughter left for that place last evening.

Messrs. Frost and Sellers have leased the store building at 90 Calhoun street, and will open a whole sale and retail fish and oyster business in a few days.

Wm. E. Quinn, of Chicago, spent Sunday with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Michael Quinn, of West Lafayette street. Mr. Quinn was formerly chief deputy coroner of Cook county, but now holds the position of assistant superintendent of sewers under the Carter H. Harrison administration.

Miss Laura Schulz gave a musical last evening in honor of Miss Laureta McCarthy, of Garrett. Ed Vesching's song entitled, "Hiawatha," was well received; also the piano duets by Peter Zurbach and Tom O'Brien, and Nellie Connors and Annie O'Brien were heartily applauded.

Mrs. Sturdar, of Edgerton, Ind., brought her three little children to the city today and placed them in the Allen county orphans' home. They are aged ten months, two years and four years. The woman states that her husband deserted her and that she has not the means to support her little ones.

AMERICA'S SHAME.

No Protection for the Red Cross Society.

Its Name and Insignia Treated With Less Respect Than Those Which Europeans Think of Less.

New York, Oct. 11.—Miss Clara Barton, president of the Red Cross, who recently went abroad to attend the sixth annual conference of the order, was a passenger by the Bretagne, which arrived yesterday from Havre.

In speaking of the efforts that had been made to secure protection for the name and insignia of the Red Cross, Miss Barton said that with the exception of this country, the leading signatory nations had passed laws protecting the name.

"It was humiliating," she continued, "to confess before that great assemblage that in our own enlightened country there are 2nd persons, corporations and firms who are using the name and sign of the red cross as a trade mark for private gain; that there are innumerable bodies here who have founded Red Cross societies for local purposes, and who are in no way connected with the national organization. It was and to confess that up to the present time the American congress had passed no law for the protection of the moral emblem of humanity and taken no step to keep it from being degraded.

"The Red Cross delegates were amazed to learn that the wealthy men of the great republic had not richly endowed their own Red Cross, nor could they understand why our congress had not probably tied by stringent laws the prostitution of humanity's universal emblem."

PETER E. STUDEBAKER.

Death of the Well-known South Bend Manufacturer.

Peter E. Studebaker was born in Ashland county, Ohio, April 1, 1836. He was the fourth of five sons of John Studebaker and was the only one who was not raised to be a wagon-maker. He was married in 1858 and opened a retail store in Goshen, but in 1860 he began selling wagons for his brothers. He moved to South Bend in 1865 and became a partner with his brothers, Clement and John M., and later moved to St. Joseph, Mo., then a great outfitting point for California, Oregon, Montana and Santa Fe, where he carried on a large business in wagons. He returned to South Bend in 1871. He afterward represented the Studebaker company for many years at Chicago, where he took an active interest in public and local charities. He was an imperial friend of the waifs' mission.

South Bend, Ind., Oct. 11.—The funeral of the late Peter E. Studebaker will take place at the residence in this city Tuesday afternoon, at 2 o'clock, Rev. Henry W. Johnson, D. D., of the First Presbyterian church, will officiate, assisted by Rev DeLos Burke, of the Episcopal church, and Rev. S. W. Gross, of Hillsdale Memorial chapel. The interment will be at the City cemetery.

FLOODS IN NEW YORK.

Great Water Mains Burst and Transformed Streets into Subterranean Rivers.

New York, Oct. 11.—A forty-eight-inch water main at the southeast corner of Forty-eighth street and Madison avenue burst yesterday morning and flooded that street portion of the city with 10,000,000 gallons of water. The flood stretched from Forty-ninth to Forty-second street and from Fifth avenue across the tracks of the New York Central railroad to Fourth avenue.

It was the greatest and most destructive accident of the kind which has occurred in the history of the city. Within the area mentioned thousands of dollars worth of property was destroyed. The flood was not evenly distributed by reason of the pavements. The water was forced through the ground into the cellars of the houses. At some places it was fifteen feet deep.

PROTEST TO NICARAGUA.

United States Government to Protect the Maritime Canal Company.

Washington, Oct. 11.—Another diplomatic controversy between the United States and Nicaragua is impending as a result of the action of the latter government in granting a concession to an English corporation which, it is believed, conflicts with that accorded to the Maritime Canal company of New York.

Fearing injury to the rights of the American corporation, the state department recently cabled to Minister Baker, stationed at Managua, directing him to examine the concession granted to the English company, and in case of conflict with that of the Maritime Canal company to enter a strong protest.

TO TAX THE POLICIES.

Indiana Authorities Will Proceed in Strong Array of Figures.

Indianapolis, Oct. 11.—The attorney general's office is preparing to present some significant figures to the supreme court in the litigation involving the constitutionality of the action of the state board of tax commissioners ordering the assessment of paid up and nonforfeitable life insurance policies.

An effort has been made to learn the amount of such investments in Indiana, and the inquiries show that there are carried by Indianapolis citizens alone over $3,000,000 in such policies, none of which are under $1,000.

In other cities of the state the proportion is not so large, but state officials estimate that fully $15,000,000 is escaping taxation through such policies, which are held purely as business investments.

JOHN CAMPION,

A Well Known Citizen, Dies Unexpectedly Today.

Consumption Claims Heavy Sacrifice—Mrs. Anna Tassler Called—Other Deaths.

This morning occurred the death of John J. Campion, of 74 East Butler street. His disease as diagnosed by his attending physician, was progressive nostrils. Although he has been ailing for some months his death was unexpected. His affliction took a sudden turn for the worse yesterday. Mr. Campion was forty-five years old and leaves a wife and several children. He was employed for some years as a mail agent. The funeral has not been announced.

MRS. STAHL.

Announcement is made of the death of Mrs. Anna Stahl, at Avilla, Ind. She was the mother of Mrs. John Ferguson, jr., and Mrs. R. K. Randall, of Avilla. The funeral occurred today.

A JEWISH FEAST.

Succoth, or Feast of the Tabernacle, Today.

Services at the Hebrew Temple—Rabbi Cohn Eulogizes the Late Captain J. B. White.

Today is known in the Jewish faith as "Succoth," or the Feast of the Tabernacle. It was observed in this city with appropriate services at the Hebrew temple. It is a day when the devout of heart humble themselves, no matter what high station of life they may have reached. Rabbi Cohn delivered a brilliant sermon and he eulogized the late Captain White in glowing terms, setting his life up as an example to illustrate his text. He said that though Captain White had risen, he did not forget that he began his career in a very modest manner. The rabbi touched upon Fort Wayne's loss and the people's loss by the death of Captain White and pronounced him a great and good man, a public benefactor.

PASTORAL CONFERENCE.

Fort Wayne Ministers and Professors Leave for South Bend Tuesday.

To-morrow the district synod of the Lutheran church will be convened at South Bend, and a large number of ministers and professors left for that city to attend the meeting. The district includes the congregations of Northern Indiana. The business transacted is of the same character as that done at the Missouri synod, only on a smaller scale.

The fire department made a run to 110 Washington boulevard shortly after noon today. A house belonging to Mrs. Becker caught fire and caused about $50 damage before the flames were subdued.

Fort Wayne Hive No. 8, L. O. T. M., will give an entertainment and dance at their hall, No. 10 Calhoun street, on Saturday evening, October 16.

SAD PREPARATIONS.

Arrangements for the Obsequies of Captain White.

Soldiers, Catholicism, Employes and Women Here at the Council Will Turn Out to Honor the Last Moments.

RESOLUTIONS OF RESPECT.

Fort Wayne, Ind., Oct. 11, '97. Fort Wayne Soldier, Sons and Citizens' Club.

Again one of our members has answered the roll call of the Grand Commander.

Comrade James B. White has joined the army from which there will be no discharge. While we mourn his loss we cherish his memory and the noble record he has left as a citizen, a successful business man, a statesman and a soldier.

We are not alone in our bereavement; his family mourn the loss of a kind and loving husband and father—the city, the loss of one of her foremost and successful citizens—the state one of her tried and trusted servants.

Our departed brother was possessed of a kind and loving heart, inflexible in his manhood and sterling integrity, ever ready to assist all who were in an honorable manner struggling to succeed in their laudable efforts.

None knew him but to love him. While we deeply deplore his loss yet we bow in humble submission to the will of Him who does all things well.

To his sorrowing and bereaved family we extend our heartfelt sympathy; to his old comrades we would say, let us emulate his noble traits of character and like him, fight under the banner of the captain of his salvation, so that when our names are called we will have the assurance of meeting our departed comrade at the great reunion of all who, like him, have fought a good fight and kept the faith.

Resolved, That a copy of above be spread upon our records, published in the city papers and also a copy be forwarded to the bereaved family.

C. B. OLIVER,
JOSEPH LOMBARD,
JOHN A. SHUDAY,
Committee.

LARCENY CASES.

Four Offenders Arraigned Before Justice Franke.

Two Were Indicted in the Pentry Thieves and Rabbit-The Score of the Courts.

This was Justice Franke's busy day and the three cases which had bearing in his court were all for larceny.

Bruno Herring was arrested at 2 o'clock this afternoon and arraigned for trial on the charge of stealing a dog belonging to Joseph Barrot.

James Laughlin and Frank Parr were the names given respectively by two men arrested on warrant charging them with cruelty to animals, the cruelty consisting of tying together the legs of turkeys brought by them to the city this morning. They are strangers and are suspected of having stolen the turkeys. They claim to have bought the fowls near Edgerton, this county. Justice Franke fined the men $5 and costs each and they are in jail. The officers and the sheriff will make an investigation.

As soon as the officers can find him William Mehaffe will be arrested on a warrant sworn to by his wife charging him with the larceny of a sewing machine, the property of Mrs. Metzing. Metzing is said to have pawned the machine.

THE COURT HOUSE.

Sarah Jane Meyer has commenced suit in the Superior court for divorce from the Charles Louis Meyer. The complaint says they were married in 1884, and that since that time the husband has treated plaintiff in a cruel and inhuman manner, striking and kicking her and applying to her foul epithets, charging her with faithlessness and other wrong doing. They have one child.

Allen P. McQuiston has asked the superior court for an injunction to restrain County Treasurer Hunter and County Auditor Bohlsen from collecting certain taxes.

RESOLUTIONS OF RESPECT.

Again one of our members has answered the roll call of the Grand Commander.

Comrade James B. White has joined the army from which there will be no discharge. While we mourn his loss we cherish his memory and the noble record he has left as a citizen, a successful business man, a statesman and a soldier.

We are not alone in our bereavement; his family mourn the loss of a kind and loving husband and father—the city, the loss of one of her foremost and successful citizens—the state one of her tried and trusted servants.

Our departed brother was possessed of a kind and loving heart, inflexible in his manhood and sterling integrity, ever ready to assist all who were in an honorable manner struggling to succeed in their laudable efforts.

None knew him but to love him. While we deeply deplore his loss yet we bow in humble submission to the will of Him who does all things well.

To his sorrowing and bereaved family we extend our heartfelt sympathy; to his old comrades we would say, let us emulate his noble traits of character and like him, fight under the banner of the captain of his salvation, so that when our names are called we will have the assurance of meeting our departed comrade at the great reunion of all who, like him, have fought a good fight and kept the faith.

Resolved, That a copy of above be spread upon our records, published in the city papers and also a copy be forwarded to the bereaved family.

C. B. OLIVER,
JOSEPH LOMBARD,
JOHN A. SHUDAY,

LARCENY CASES.

Four Offenders Arraigned Before Justice Franke.

Two Were Indicted in the Pentry Thieves and Rabbit-The Score of the Courts.

This was Justice Franke's busy day and the three cases which had bearing in his court were all for larceny.

James Laughlin and Frank Parr were the names given respectively by two men arrested on warrant charging them with cruelty to animals, the cruelty consisting of tying together the legs of turkeys brought by them to the city this morning. They are strangers and are suspected of having stolen the turkeys. They claim to have bought the fowls near Edgerton, this county. Justice Franke fined the men $5 and costs each and they are in jail. The officers and the sheriff will make an investigation.

As soon as the officers can find him William Mehaffe will be arrested on a warrant sworn to by his wife charging him with the larceny of a sewing machine, the property of Mrs. Metzing. Metzing is said to have pawned the machine.

THE COURT HOUSE.

Sarah Jane Meyer has commenced suit in the Superior court for divorce from the Charles Louis Meyer. The complaint says they were married in 1884, and that since that time the husband has treated plaintiff in a cruel and inhuman manner, striking and kicking her and applying to her foul epithets, charging her with faithlessness and other wrong doing. They have one child.

Allen P. McQuiston has asked the superior court for an injunction to restrain County Treasurer Hunter and County Auditor Bohlsen from collecting certain taxes.

Sarah D. Lee has asked the circuit court to grant her a divorce from George D. Lee.

The superior court has temporarily adjourned owing to the illness of Judge Dawson.

MAYOR SWEENY surely has not forgotten that he began a campaign against policy gambling last week. The game is going on as usual. What is to be your next move, Mayor Sweeny?

INDIANAPOLIS holds her city election tomorrow and the balance of the state can then take a rest. Indianapolis speeds to the furthermost ends of the state's jurisdiction when she holds an election.

ADVOCATES state that Nicaragua is endeavoring to establish a gold standard and will use temporarily the gold coin of the United States until its own coins can be substituted. The government will discontinue the use of silver temporarily to induce importation of gold.

GOVERNOR CULBERSON, of Texas, has just commuted to imprisonment for life the penalty of a man sentenced to death for committing a criminal assault on a little girl. The man was convicted by a jury after a fair trial. The course of the governor, in view of these facts would seem to have been unwise. The law says the death penalty may be inflicted for rape in that state and it was something that the law was allowed to take its course in Texas in the case of such a crime. It was small wonder, therefore, that enraged citizens of Montgomery county formed the governor in effigy. And it will be still smaller wonder if there is a fresh outbreak of mob violence in the state of Texas.

Over 26,000 barrels of American apples were shipped to Great Britain last week and the price paid for red in Liverpool averaged $2.25. The choicest Newtown pippins brought from $3.50 to $3.75 a barrel. Other American apples have secured an established reputation abroad.

A CORRESPONDENT of a New York paper favors Indian corn as the national emblem. Distinctively American, large, generous, life giving, beneficent, glorious in form and color, with its crested floss, pointing upward—truly a torch of Liberty held aloft." If a national flower is necessary the suggestion deserves thought.

THE state board of health has issued a bulletin taking the physicians of the state severely to task for violating the law in failing to report deaths. The bulletin declares that the mortality as reported shows but 5.7 deaths per 1,000, whereas it could not possibly be less than 15 per 1,000, and the secretary states that vital statistics based on such reports are absolutely worthless. He serves notice that he will enforce the law rigidly.

SCAR ONE has been looking over an American book published in 1872, entitled, "The House: Where It Should be and What Should be Put Into It," and makes the discovery that the household equipment costing $1,000 at that time can be bought now for $400. The $3 kitchen clock of that period has dropped to eighty-five cents, furniture and carpets cost less than half as much, window shades less by two-thirds, and a dozen solid silver tablespoons can be obtained for a large discount on $30. Their cost now is about $1 an ounce.

A FRENCH scientist has a theory that music has an effect upon the growth of the hair; that various musical instruments have a tendency to increase the growth of hair on the heads of players, while other instruments tend to make the musicians bald, which is held to account for the fact that pianists and violinists usually have hair in plenty, while those who play on brass horns are usually destitute in hirsute adornment. The Music Trade Review, commenting on the matter, observes that "music has long been known to have therapeutic qualities and is useful in many nervous diseases, and now it seems that it may be useful as a hair tonic."

ONE hard winter, when sickness came to the poorly paid pastor of a certain New England church, his flock determined to meet at his house and offer prayers for speedy recovery of the sick man and if a material blessing upon the pastor's family. While one of the deacons was offering a fervent prayer for blessings upon the pastor's household there was a loud knock at the door. When the door was opened a sober farmer low was seen. "What do you want, boy?" asked one of the elders. "I've brought pies, pray-er," replied the boy. "Brought pies to pray-ers? What do you mean?" "Yes, brought his prayers, and they're out in the wagon. Just help me, and we'll get 'em in." Investigation disclosed the fact that upon a generous assortment of potatoes, flour, corn meal, turnips, apples, warm clothing and a lot of pollen for the sick man. The prayer meeting adjourned in short order.

THE cause of trades unions in England is now at its crisis, and the blow which it will receive by the failure of the engineers' strike, which seems imminent, may be a fatal one. But the workmen will die, hard, and have issued a manifesto, in which they declare the one purpose of the employers' federation to be to entirely crush organized labor. They hold this warning in the face of union workmen in all other trades and make a crying appeal for funds to continue the battle. It is thought now that they will also succeed in having all the other workmen in the ship-building yards come out during the coming week. If they succeed in that will add 250,000 more men to their side. This will show plainly that the engineers have the sympathy of their fellow workmen in this line, but it will add to the difficulties of the strike managers in supporting the idle workmen, as the only trouble with the strikers seems to be the lack of funds.

It is curious that the present year should record the diamond jubilee of telegraphy, and, at the same time, bring into prominent notice the possibilities of wireless telegraphy. On June 10, 1837, Cooke and Wheatstone's first patent for electric telegraphs were signed by William IV. The Fall Mall Gazette states that on July 4 of that year the first telegraph wire was laid. The circuit was between Euston and Camden Town railway stations, under the permanent way of the London and Northwestern railway then named the London and Birmingham Railway company. The line consisted of five wires, each wire laid in a separate groove cut out of long blocks of wood. There are many of these blocks in existence. A year or two ago one was dug up, and actually formed part of the circuit through which was flashed to all parts of the empire the message from Buckingham palace on jubilee day, so that a portion of the first telegraph wire is dug up and serves as an aid to the royal message in the very year it is proposed to celebrate the jubilee of wireless telegraph without wires.

JAMES B. WHITE.

There is probably no citizen of Fort Wayne who does not today feel that in the death of Capt. James B. White there has fallen upon him the weight of a personal loss. This city has perhaps never had a citizen who was so much to so many persons in all conditions as was Captain White. There were few in Fort Wayne who did not know him and few who do not appreciate the acquisition of many substantial benefits from his life.

Captain White was an ideal citizen. He believed in progress and gave to the advancement of Fort Wayne a large public spirit, a tireless energy and a bold yet conservative enterprise. Eminently successful in his own affairs, with the unselfish spirit which was his marked trait he believed in promoting the success of others. So many, indeed, have been the benefits he has conferred upon the city that the chronicle of his life is interwoven with the history of Fort Wayne during the long period of his residence here.

To the highest type of citizenship Captain White united all the noble qualities of a man. His firm sense of honor in every public and private relation was an example for men. The woes of the poor filled his heart with the glow of human sympathy and the cry of distress never fell on his ears unheeded. His generous hand was ever dispensing charity and today, in this city, there are aching with grief the hearts of hundreds whose misfortunes he had relieved and whose sorrows he had comforted.

Captain White's career was as distinguished as it was useful and it may be truly said of him that he never sought preferments nor did he accept them for ambition's sake. He rose to eminence by the force of those innate qualities which unconsciously exalt some men above the community of their fellows.

In his domestic life he found his greatest pleasure and his devotion to his home and his family was ideal. All his splendid attributes as man and citizen he crowned with an earnest Christian character that he constantly exemplified by right living. His death robs hundreds of a faithful counsellor and friend, and makes vacant in our citizenship a place that will not be filled by such another.

HAPPY OLD COUPLE.

Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Hughes Married Fifty Years.

Venerable Pair Quietly Celebrate Their Golden Wedding—Lived in Fort Wayne Thirty-three Years.

"If there is anything in life more beautiful than the purl and ripple of the pure and joyous current of childhood, surely it is the calm flow of the old tide of years as it moves to the great unseen sea of eternity. Old age, indeed, is beautiful, and when to a happy life full of years and crowned with content is added the pleasures of an ideal domesticity there is little remained that can add to the picture.

Two such old people will tomorrow quietly celebrate the jubilee anniversary of a day that was full of joy half a century ago when, as a young man, sprightly, spare and good looking James C. Hughes led blushing to the hymenial altar fair Julia Yohn. The two were wed and since that day fifty years ago they have shared together the joy and sorrow of life, the one more sweet and the other less bitter, that as man and wife they tasted them.

JAMES C. HUGHES.

They were married October 12, 1847, at Reading, Pa. Thirty three years ago Mr. and Mrs. Hughes came to Fort Wayne and made their home on East Lewis street, at the same place where they now reside. They have spent a long and happy life together. Their devotion has not only survived half a century but has, like old wine, a more mellow flavor than ever. Both love to do good and their kindness of heart is proverbial among their hosts of friends, and "Uncle Jimmy," as his friends delight to call him, is ever solicitous for those who are sick and his kind offices as nurse have and do yet give comfort to many a couch of pain.

MRS. JULIA HUGHES.

After fifty years of happy companionship this couple, sitting hand in hand neath the shade of their own vine and fig tree in the dying glow of the purple sunset of old age, may look back and be thankful each that the other has been vouchsafed.

It was the intention of this popular old couple to observe their golden wedding in a manner befitting such an occasion, but owing to the infirmities which have seized the lady, making of her an almost complete cripple, the idea of a celebration in which their legion of friends would participate has been abandoned. No doubt many friends will drop in at the hospitable home of the couple tomorrow to congratulate them.

WILL NOT CONFLICT.

Senator Turpie and Former Governor Matthews Reach an Agreement.

CLINTON, Ind., Oct. 11.—United States Senator Turpie is spending a few days with ex-Governor Matthews at the Haze Bluff farm, near this place, and it is understood that the two have agreed that there shall be no conflict between their ambitions in the coming campaign.

This means that the ex-governor will not be a candidate for the senate, and that Mr. Turpie will have a clear field, so far as the democratic party is concerned. For that honor, and that Matthews will wait for the expiration of the term of Senator Fairbanks before he shows his center in the sensational field.

SWAMP ON FIRE.

Farmers Gather at the Scene to Fight the Flames.

ALBION, N. Y., Oct. 11.—Tonawanda swamp, on the south border of Orleans county, is on fire. Farmers have quit work to fight the flames and save their buildings. Hundreds of acres of farm lands have been swept by fire and great damage has been done. Two lumber camps in the swamp have been utterly destroyed; mills and huts and huge stacks of timber being piled up by the fire as if they were finest wood.

NORTHERN INDIANA NOTES.

Dr. David E. Webster, a prominent citizen of Columbia City, is dead, aged forty-nine years.

The public school buildings at Wolcottville was burned Saturday morning. It was erected but a few years ago at a cost of $10,000.

Michigan City dedicated her new public library building Saturday. The building was built by subscriptions, is very handsome and cost about $75,000.

Judge Gillett, at Crown Point, sentenced Otto Albert Reinke, of Lake county, to the penitentiary for fifteen years for stealing a team of horses. Reinke serves a term of seven years before, given him by Judge Johnston.

Two more gushers were added to the number of oil producers in the Poes field yesterday. One belongs to Belda Bros., and is good for 200 barrels, while the other is the property of the Bashet company. The output is about 150 barrels.

Snakes, particularly of the blue racer type, are overrunning Michigan City. Reptiles measuring five feet in length are being killed on the principal streets. It is thought they have been driven from the marshes by the fires which are raging in that locality.

Simon Goldsberry, a farmer who lives four miles west of Galveston, suffered a loss of $1,000 by fire Friday night. His large barn, together with four horses and the usual contents of such buildings, was destroyed by a fire supposed to be of incendiary origin. This is the fourth barn thus destroyed recently within a radius of three miles.

C. H. Ames, a Converse harness dealer, has a habit of holding tacks in his mouth while working. Saturday he swallowed a large, sharp one. He had previously swallowed several and experienced no evil results, but this alarmed him, as it was exceptionally large and dangerous. He hastened to a physician, told his story, and the doctor has placed him on a diet of boiled potatoes, through apprehensive of serious results.

E. A. Miner has resumed the editorship of the Garrett Herald. The following editorial explanation seems to go to the bottom of causes: "When we retired from the Herald a little over three months ago it was with the full belief that we would never again be in the newspaper business in this vicinity, but the failure of Mr. Murray to get his inheritance and the further fact that he mysteriously disappeared last Monday makes it imperative that I again make my bow to the readers of the Garrett Herald."

KNOCKED OUT BY FITZ.

Another Spectacular Partner of the Champion Lost Easy.

CINCINNATI, Oct. 11.—Mike Dempsey, of New York, appeared for the first time yesterday afternoon as Bob Fitzsimmons sparring partner. In the first round Fitz struck Dempsey under the right shoulder and Dempsey went to the floor. In falling he struck his head and was unconscious for several minutes. The audience was then dismissed. At night Dempsey was about. He was told that he would not do and Ernest Roeder, the wrestler, appeared with Fitz. Fitz said he did not strike Dempsey hard, but was badly frightened when he saw Dempsey fall. Just before going on the stage Dempsey took something to nerve him up, and Fitz says the nerve produced and not his blow caused the knock-out.

JUMPING ON BUFFALOES.

Tiger Jack's Terrible Story of a Marvelous Escape.

"Speaking of liars," said the western Kansas man as he knocked the ashes out of his pipe and looked at the real estate agent out of the corner of his eye, "I think western Kansas can show up some as rare specimens as I ever set eyes on. Now, there was old John S. I'll not give his full name because the old man still lives out somewhere near Kiowa, and if he was to get in print as a noted liar he might get hot. When I read an account of Speaker Bill Stone's speech up in Jewell county at an old settlers' picnic, where he said that he had stood on a knoll and seen a dense moving herd of buffalo as far as the eye could reach, some way it brought old John to mind.

"When I first struck the short grass country, old John was there. He got me interested one day and was so tickled to get a fresh victim that he hardly stopped even to take a drink until he had stuffed me so full that I was partially paralyzed for a month afterward. He gave me to understand that for years before he came to Kansas he was one of the most crowded desperadoes and in that killers that ever roamed through the Rocky mountains. I learned afterward that he couldn't hight a cat and actually trembled with fear whenever his hatchet faced wife turned loose on him with her tongue, but when I met next him his bloodthirsty talk fairly made my blood run cold.

"He informed me that he was known far and wide through the mountains as Tiger Jack, the terror of the Rockies, but I was going to speak of his buffalo story. I asked him one day, just to bring him out, if he ever got into any tight places when he was hunting buffalo. 'Oh, I've been in places that I suppose most tellers would call tickliish,' he replied, 'but never any place that rattled Tiger Jack but once, and that time I own I was a little worried.

"'I was hunting buffalo down the Medicine valley along in 1870. The country was just alive with the critters, and I was knockin 'em right and left, when all at once somethin started a stampede, and 3,000,000 or 4,000,000 buffalo came rushin down the valley, just makin the ground shake as they come. I seen at once that I would have to get out of there or be run over, but my pony was all fagged out, and the herd kept gainin on him at every jump. I saw that them buffalo was goin to run that pony down and that something had to be done and done quick. Well, sir, I seen that there was just one thing to do. I waited till the head buffalo was right on my pony's flank, and then I made a jump and landed right on that buffalo's hump.

"'Then, sir, I just went jumpin from the back of one buffalo to another as the herd go by. I was thought, maybe, you know, that I could scatter the herd and get a chance to get down on the ground. Well, sir, when I struck the rear end of that stampede I was only a mile from home. I went out the next day and measured the distance from where I jumped from my pony to where I hit the ground and found I had traveled on the backs of buffalo for 84 miles. I'll tell you honestly, mister, I think it was a little the closest shave I ever had.'"—Kansas City Journal.

Wrong End Up.

M. Calino having taken a farm, he is very careful to instruct his assistants to take the proper and systematic course in all they do. "Be sure you begin your work at the bottom," is his favorite maxim, and he repeats it whenever he sets his men at work.

Lately he had occasion to dig a well on the place and put to the duty a couple of men superintended on that time of work.

"And in sure," he said to them as they got their picks and shovels ready, "that you begin your work at the bottom."

It was a still more curious reversal of things, perhaps, which led one of M. Calino's servants, a good woman, to come running to him one day with the announcement:

"Quick, monsieur! Come here! Your little Jean has fallen into the ditch, and he's into the sand up to his ankles!"

"Up to his ankles!" said Calino. "Why, that's nothing."

"Oh, but I forgot to tell you," said the woman, "that he's in head first!"—Youth's Companion.

A Good Sign.

On a telegraph pole in the suburbs of a New England village was tacked the notice:

"Lost.—Between here and the post-office, a real lady's hair switch black mixt with gray with short string tide around one end the above which please return to the postmaster and get fifty cents with thanks of owner who needs it badly and will be thankful for the kindness of any Lady or gent who will return what cannot be of no use to them, but which is a needcessary to her."—Harper's Bazar.

TO MAKE FARMS BEAUTIFUL.

How Waste Places and Odd Corners May Be Made Attractive.

Many farms and homesteads have a desolate appearance because the odd corners and bits of ground are left untilled and grow up in unsightly weeds in summer and become dreary and barren looking in the winter. It is too often the case that whatever plots of land are unsuitable for cultivation because of their smallness or because inconveniently situated are left in this wild condition and mar the effect of an otherwise well kept farm or beautiful home.

In a recent report on "Experimental Farms," issued by the Canadian government, W. T. Macoun, foreman of forestry, makes many suggestions as to how these unsightly spots may be made attractive and productive. Mr. Macoun says: "No matter how small the plot of ground or how situated, there is no reason why it should be an eyesore. It is this utilization of every nook, corner and cranny and the making of two blades of grass to grow where a weed grew before that has made rural England so beautiful to the eye and so pleasing to the aesthetic sense. The agricultural and pastoral landscapes in England, where the little farms are 'given to the very dust,' have been described as 'jewel scenery.' There seems to be no good reason why the rural districts of New Jersey, New York and other states could not be made equally as attractive and fruitful."

Mr. Macoun has utilized all of these waste places about the offices and buildings of the forestry department of Central Experimental farms. In his report he thus writes of the improvement of these odd corners:

"The land adjacent to the office and other buildings, which has been devoted to the cultivation of experimental trees and shrubs, looked better this year than ever before. As the trees increase in size from year to year the landscape becomes more beautiful. The effects also of the grouping are more apparent and show pleasing combinations and contrasts of color and form. A number of the species are also beginning to bear freely their white, yellow, red, scarlet, purple and black fruits, which add further height to the effect. The flower borders and beds were a mass of bloom from early in the summer to late in the autumn, cannas, phlox, and asters being particularly fine. More hedges have been planted and some small additional areas seeded down. The trees and shrubs planted during the last two seasons have told very much to the attractiveness of the section of the farm."

The foreman also calls attention to a large number of trees and shrubs suitable for hedges and ornamental purposes. He now has hedges of 75 different species. Among the ornamental trees Mr. Macoun mentions several beautiful varieties from Japan and China, such as the syringa, the katsura tree, the Japanese quince and the exquisitely beautiful maidenhair tree, or gingko biloba.

The direct writing of the result of this utilizing of all small plots, says: "The number of specimens which have been planted along the roads from the entrance gates to and about the building is 2,742, and the number of species and varieties among these is about 800. With so many different types of beauty spread out on every hand the visitor finds objects of interest to claim his attention at every point."

In many places on the farm fruit trees could be used so that they would be at once objects of beauty and profit. Even in the smallest plots and corners the weeds and stones could be replaced by flowers, to the aesthetic delight and mental improvement of those who pass their lives on the farm.—New York Times.

The Sick.

Little more than a drift of the air brought into form by pinions. The air is all its quills. It breathes through its whole frame and feel and glows with air as flying like thous flame. It rests upon the air, subdues it, surpasses it, entrances it, and in its throat is the voice of the air. As we may imagine the wild form of the cloud closed into the perfect form of the bird's wings, so the wild voice of the cloud into its voice ripples through the clear heaven in its gladness, interpreting passion through the soft spring nights, bursting into anthem and rapture at daybreak or twittering and lisping among boughs and hedges through heat of day like little winds that ruffle the petals of the wild rose. Also on the plumes of the bird are put the colors of the air, the gold of the cloud that cannot be gathered, the vermilion of the cloud bar, the flame of the cloud crest, the snow and the shadow and the melted blue of the deep twilight of the sky. All these woven into plumes, following and fading along breast and throat and spread wings. And so the spirit of the air is put into this created form and becomes through 50 centuries the symbol of divine help descending to bless the Hebrew cherubim, the Greek flying angel of victory, and the bird has given its wings to render the conception of angels and thus has influenced religion.—Ruskin.

How a Road Is Ordered Was Made.

The way in which the Irish imagination accounts for the curious notch in the Devil's Bit mountain, Tipperary, is indicated in its very name. But there are two versions of the legend. According to one, it is said that Nickie Bee, just to try how sharp his teeth were, bit a piece off the upper edge, but, finding it rather too hard even for his digestion, he threw it up at Cashel, in the same county, where it has remained ever since. In confirmation of the story it is gravely asserted that the rock of Cashel would exactly fit into the gap left in the aforesaid mountain. In Notes and Queries, June 1, 1861, the tale is told as follows: "In the Slieve mountains, near Templemore, Ireland, there is a large out or hollow, visible at the distance of 20 miles, called by the name of the 'Devil's Bit.' There is a popular tradition that the devil was obliged by one of these witch-makers and for his extraordinary exertions to bite in the rugged hollow, and in taking a piece of the mountain in his mouth, bore it over the bog and in crossing it fell behind it."—Gentleman's Magazine.

Some idea of the size of Alaska may be formed when it is known that it contains an area of 577,390 square miles. This is more than twice the area of Texas. Twelve states the size of Pennsylvania could be carved out of the territory of Alaska, with enough left over to make a state like South Carolina.

"IN GOD WE TRUST."

Origin of the Legend on Coins of the United States.

Director Preston of the mint has been asked so often about the origin of the legend on the coins of this country "In God We Trust" that he has made a statement of the results of his researches.

So far as the department records show, the first suggestion for the recognition of the Deity on the coins of the United States was made by W. E. Whitman, of Ridgeville, Pa., who signed himself "Minister of the Gospel" in a letter dated November 13, 1864. He wrote to Secretary Chase somewhat as follows: "You are probably a Christian. What if our republic were not mentioned in the coins of the country? Would not the antiquaries of succeeding centuries rightly reason from that that we were a heathen nation? What I propose is that instead of the Goddess of Liberty we shall have held beside the Thirteen stars a ring inscribed with the words 'perpetual union,' within this ring the all-seeing eye, crowned with a halo, beneath this eye the American flag, bearing in its field stars equal to the number of the States united; in the folds of the flag the words, 'God, Liberty, Law.' This would make a device which no foreign pride or state object could object. This would relieve us from the ignominy of heathenism. This would place in apposition the divine protection we have so frequently claimed. From my heart I have felt our national shame in disowning God in our coins and in not recognizing our dependence on divine aid." Secretary Chase was impressed with the suggestion and moved by the matter so that "on our war period April 22, 1864 changing the composition of the mint, and authorizing the coinage of the two cent piece, the device of which was to be fixed by the director of the mint, with the approval of the Secretary of the Treasury, and to be upon the two cent pieces filed the motto 'In God We Trust' was suggested." The legend was ordered on other coins by subsequent acts, and finally, in 1873, it was ordered to be inscribed on such coins as admit of it.

PRESIDENT THOMSON

Will Travel 3,163 Miles on a Specially Equipped Twelve-Wheel Composite Engine.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Oct. 11.—President Frank Thomson, of the Pennsylvania Railroad company, Vice Presidents Green and Duck, and several of the directors and other executive officers of the company, left here at 7:30 o'clock this morning on the annual tour of inspection of the property of the company's east system. The party, which is traveling in a special train of five handsome Pullman and private cars, will today go direct to Erie, over the main line to Harrisburg and the Northern Central and the Philadelphia and Erie divisions via Williamsport. From Erie the party will go to Cleveland over the Lake Shore and Michigan Southern road. On Wednesday the Lake Shore road will again be taken for Chicago, stopping made at Toledo and Mansfield. Thursday will be spent in Chicago, and in the evening the special train will leave for St. Joseph. There the party will go to Terre Haute, and on Saturday morning they will leave Terre Haute for St. Louis, reaching that city on Saturday afternoon. On Sunday evening the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy road will be taken for Keokuk. On Monday, the 15th inst., the party will start on the return trip, and visits will be paid to Indianapolis, Columbus and other cities, Pittsburg being reached on Wednesday evening. On Thursday afternoon Altoona will be visited and the return thence to Philadelphia on Friday will be made by way of Lewistown Junction, Selins's Grove Junction and the Schuylkill Valley division via Pottsville and Reading. The trip will cover 3,163 miles. The party consists of President Frank Thomson, First Vice President John P. Green, Directors N. Parker Shortridge, William H. Barnes, George Wood, Ellingham H. Morris and Amos R. Little, Chief of Motive Power T. N. Ely and Samuel Rea, assistant to the president, all of whom will make the entire trip. President Frank J. Firth of the Erie and Western Transportation company; General Manager John E. Payne, of the same company; General Manager J. B. Hutchinson and Engineer of Maintenance J. T. Richards, of the Pennsylvania Railroad company, will leave the party at Erie. Director A. J. Cassatt, Second Vice President Chas. E. Pugh, Chief Engineer W. H. Brown, Freight Traffic Manager W. H. Joyce and General Agent W. J. Latta will go as far as Cleveland, and Directors C. A. Griscom and C. Stewart Patterson and E. T. Postlethwaite, assistant to the president, will drop out of the party at Chicago.

NEW STYLE ENGINE.

A composite passenger coach and steam locomotive is the latest thing in railroad equipment, says the Chicago Record. In a few days one of these composite cars will be placed on the rails of the New England road, and when it makes its first trip electrical engineers will realize that the locomotive has thrown down the gauntlet to the electric motor.

In thickly settled countries electrical traction on railroads is not economical. On hundreds of branch lines the regulation train, hauled by a locomotive, is expensive. It requires at least five men to handle a branch train, and railroad managers have been trying for some time to reduce the expense of operating trains on their branch lines.

The management of the New England road has determined finally to try what are called "composites"—that is, a regularly equipped passenger coach, with a steam engine in one end to supply the motive power. In short, the management wanted a highly developed "dummy."

The order was given to the Schenectady Locomotive works, and a few days ago General Manager Clark, of the New England road, was invited to visit the works and inspect the first car of the improved composite order, built under his specifications. The several tests made showed that the composite was economical in operation, and the general manager of the road expressed himself as being confident that the composite will demonstrate the value of the radical departure from the conventional and standard methods.

The composite looks like a long passenger coach, with a pilot and headlights on the front end. The smokestack has none the appearance of a ventilator hood than a stack, and, as the fuel will be coke or hard coal, there will be nothing but the escaping steam to indicate that the composite is a masked locomotive and not an electric motor car.

The car is sixty-four feet long, heated by steam and lighted with gas. Long cylindrical tanks, strapped under the car, carry the water, and the coke or hard coal is kept in a bin in the front end of the car.

The drivers of the motor are only 42 inches in diameter and the cylinders are 12 by 16 inches, yet a test showed that the composite could make forty-five miles an hour with ease. The train and engine crew of the composite will consist of but two men—the engineer and the conductor. The car will start out on its trip with a pressure of 200 pounds of steam on, and the makers guarantee that this pressure will be sufficient, without further firing, to carry the car twelve miles at least, and in all probability twenty miles.

The bell will ring automatically, so that the engineer will need to pay no attention to it, and the fire grates will be worked with a lever on the same principle as that applied to the grates under the boilers of the American line steamships, the St. Paul and St. Louis.

The management of the New England road estimates that the saving of labor, as between five and two men, and the saving in fuel, oil and other supplies, will materially reduce the cost per mile of operation.

A FORMER RESIDENT TAKES SICK.

J. B. Saunders is lying at his home, 83 West Lewis street, suffering from blood clot on the brain. Last April Mr. Saunders was employed one warm day in working about his garden and was overcome. In the fall he struck the basin at the opening of a sewer and injured his head and broke his collar bone. He was discovered lying on the walk in an unconscious condition by his daughter shortly after the accident. He has not been in good health since, but until just recently there were no fears entertained that the injury would terminate in any serious disorder, physically or mentally. Mr. Saunders is now practically a physical wreck and at times his mind wanders and he is unable to recognize even his most intimate friends. The sick man was employed for many years in the Pittsburg shops and the news of his misfortune will be received with sorrow by his old comrades, many of whom are still employed therein.

CONDITION OF THE PENNSYLVANIA.

The annual track inspection of the Pennsylvania railroad system, between Pittsburg and New York, terminated at Jersey City Saturday. This inspection is made by J. B. Hutchinson, general manager, assisted by F. L. Stoppard, general superintendent of the Pennsylvania railroad division; F. Wolstenholme, general superintendent of the United railroads of New Jersey division, the division superintendents of all the divisions, the division engineers and the supervisors. The most interesting feature of the inspection train is the track indicator. By an ingenious piece of mechanism within the car every inequality in the track is registered and recorded on a chart which continually passes through the machine while the car is in motion. The story told by this chart is perfect, and forms the basis on which the determination of the condition of the track is founded.

RE-ENGINEERED.

Andrew Barnett, of Rich Valley, Clarion county, at his home near Farmerville, has completed the work and Saturday night returned home.

C. M. Company, one of S. F. Bowser's traveling men, has returned to the factory, Fort Wayne, after a short visit with his uncle and children in Lakeside.

John Dale Jones, a farmer at the Pittsburg shops, is taking a few days' lay off to look after some private business connected with the manufacture of washing machines, in which he is interested.

Machinist Adam Gillis, who had a finger amputated two weeks ago, this morning resumed his place in the Pittsburg shops. The shaft was crippled and required a skilled machinist to assist in its removal.

William Dolfinger, a conductor, has gone to the employ of the Electric corporation, is suffering with a painfully shaft. It seems to realize that for some time unless the fever is broken. He is quite sick today.

David Butler, assistant foreman of the Pittsburg locomotive shops, received the news of the sudden death of his father yesterday at Dunkirk, N. Y., and immediately left for that city to attend the funeral.

Nearly all the roads have for some weeks past been working an extra number of section men, getting tracks in order for the usual fall inspections, and seldom have the rails entered a winter with track in as good condition.

On October 1 a rule went into effect on the Baltimore and Ohio Southwestern requiring employes who had held passes to purchase commutation tickets, paying half fare. The order has created so much ill feeling that on January 1 free transportation will again be issued to employes.

The earnings of the Chesapeake and Ohio for October had fair increased those of any month in the history of the road. It is carrying more passengers and handling a larger tonnage of freight for export via Newport News and getting better rates for carrying the business than ever before.

General Roadmaster A. B. Adams of the Wabash, passed through the city this morning, en route to Wellsville, where he will place the steam shovel in operation in the gravel pit and put the work train on the Chicago line again. Work of this character had been suspended during the summer months.

George Killen, the blacksmith, is reported considerable better than he was last week. Yesterday he received and talked to some of his friends in a rational manner and he appeared to be much less nervous than usual. There is a chance for his recovery now and the family and friends are greatly encouraged.

The Baltimore and Ohio has been suffering from the pilferings of train thieves for several weeks. The thieves operate on the fast freights between South Chicago and Walkerton and a force of detectives is now maintained on these trains in the hope of capturing the thieves who have stolen so much valuable freight.

It is asserted, on what appears to be good authority, that when the winter time schedule goes into effect on the Wabash road next month, the local freight runs will be changed back to where they were last spring, one crew from Andrews to Fort Wayne and return and two crews between Andrews and Lafayette. The long hours on the present runs have made it almost impossible to retain men in the train service.

The party of workmen and the trains which have been engaged in replacing the small bridges on the Wabash road by pipe sewers and filling the space above with earth has changed its base of operations from the vicinity of Roanoke to west of Andrews. This work will be continued until all the small bridges have been taken out and solid earth embankments with large pipe sewers, have been built. The earth for filling purposes is now being hauled from this city, where the Findlay, Fort Wayne and Western is making an extensive cut for its connection with the Pittsburg.

compensated a $20,000 damages suit against the Wabash railroad for $100. Bennett acted as administrator to recover for the killing of William Sewell by a freight train while driving across a track last January.

WRECKS COME THICK AND FAST.

Saturday night was a busy time for the Pennsylvania wreck crew, there being three calls for its services between the hours of 8 and 12. The first call was to put three cars on the track which had been derailed at Hanna street, the second to perform the same duty for engine 21, and the third to replace the trucks of two cars upon the rails at the puzzle switch. One of the cars at the Hanna street crossing was thrown over upon its side, but the damage was slight in every one of the accidents.

BRIEF MENTION.

Blacksmith John Rapp, of the Pittsburg shops, is sick.

Wabash engine 101 was this morning taken into the shops for general repairs.

A Tender, a tank builder at the Pittsburg shops, is attending a funeral.

Machinist E. B. Turner, of the Pittsburg, is working again after a short illness.

Henry Eix, a blacksmith at the Pittsburg shops, is unable to work on account of sickness.

The Big Four is now handling on its system an average of 3,000 loaded cars daily.

Louis Stetler, of the Pittsburg tank shop, is detained at home by the serious condition of his mother's health.

Michael Quinn and Frank Gannon, employes of the Wabash shops, are spending a few days in Chicago with friends.

George Wahlschmidt, one of the old employes at the Pittsburg shops, is temporarily disabled by rheumatism of the back.

The loader at Fleck's green house is about to be repaired. The work will be done by the National Boiler and Sheet Iron works.

The position of traveling engineer has been revived on the Baltimore and Ohio lines, which was abolished five years ago.

Freight traffic on the Pittsburg was good yesterday, there being fifteen trains through this city over that line during the day.

Engineer James McMullen, of the Pittsburg, is recovering from an attack of appendicitis, which at one time threatened to prove very serious.

E. R. Dunkell, assistant secretary of the railroad branch of the Y. M. C. A. at Pittsburg, has been asked to become secretary of the association at Youngstown, O.

Gruber & Benger, of the National Boiler works, received an order for a large smoke stack and breeching for the A. L. Hill Bee Keepers Supply Co., Kendallville, Ind.

The passenger made at St. Louis are making extensive preparations to entertain the general passenger and ticket agents at the coming annual meeting in that city.

The executive committee of the Western Passenger association has completed its work of arranging to place on sale on its lines November 1 the bachelor form of ticket.

Fred Bloomfield has been appointed freight agent for the Pennsylvania railroad at Ada, Ohio, and will leave for that place tomorrow with his wife and mother to reside.

In lieu of a destining market the stock of the Pennsylvania company continues to advance. Last week the shares, which are $50 each, were selling at $57 a share, and now at $58.50.

Winter tourist rates from Ohio river points south will go into effect October 15, two weeks earlier than usual. Tourist rates to other points do not become effective until November 1.

Notice has been given on the Pittsburg lines that hereafter the paymaster will not collect bills of restaurant keepers from employes, as it so much increased the work of the paymaster.

The machinists from the Rest works who had been setting up a Corliss engine in the Indiana refrigerator plant, at Jeffersonville, have completed the work and Saturday night returned home.

OF COURSE SHE DID NOT BUY

She Had Tried All the Samples, and the Result Was Unpleasant.

"Mamma get tired terribly. Now that we have her safely seated, let's look around a little bit," said Miss Brown.

"With pleasure," replied Mr. Smith, who was in the department store, but notice larger as he looked.

"I suppose all men detest shopping."

"I guess you never asked them to shop with you."

"That's impudence, Mr. Smith. That would be a good way to never know whether they do or not, wouldn't it? But I haven't the heart to dissect a plausible argument, especially when it suffered in that form."

"Miss Brown, you are a cynic. You are making me ashamed of my real sentiments."

"I'do tell me how."

"You look at everything that's serious, and my sentiments are serious."

"Now, Mr. Smith, you must stop. This wouldn't be shopping at all if we talked seriously. You are evidently nervous. They say that dyspepsia gives people these kind of thoughts. But I think that those kind of thoughts give people dyspepsia. You should avoid them, Mr. Smith. Try to be like me. I never do anything that would be likely to give me dyspepsia. But let's get to business. I've been trying for a long time to discover something that I feel that papa would like. Here are samples of 25 novelties. Isn't they look just exquisite? And aren't the girls that give them out just too dotedly get up for any thing? Don't smell that tomato soap? Mr. Smith, we must try some of that tomato soap."

"Er—sh—of course, if I were you I should certainly sample it. If I was intrusted to try as you are with a commission from a dear relative, I should determine the merits of every new brand of tomato soap or die. But, as it is, my physician says that I must confine myself absolutely to vermicelli."

"That was simply delicious. You'll never know how much you missed by not taking it, Mr. Smith. I shall certainly have to order two cans of that. And, now that you didn't take the soap, you surely can't refuse to try some of those little pickles. Aren't they the cutest things you ever saw? Do try one. Not Mr. Smith, you're a martyr. Just look at these vanilla wafers. They are made out of that new kind of cereal. Don't they look as though they would melt before they could be swallowed? And they're just as pure as they look too. Really, I mind have another. Oh, and there's some of that cheese they're all talking about. Have you tried that cheese, Mr. Smith? It has an exquisite wish, you know. I don't see how you can be so mean. I don't believe you've taken a bite of one thing except the graham wafers. Do look at those delightful swimming in that amber colored grease. It's absolutely the newest thing out, entirely vegetable, made from beets, I believe. I declare they taste just like real butter. I wish I could have a memorandum of that. And here are those new preserves which Alice Miller told me about. An entirely new system, you know. Dear! Would you imagine they did it each a quantity away as a sample? Why, dear me, you think of it, Mr. Smith, one could almost lunch here for nothing. I'm beginning to think that girl wants us to try some American olives. And there's a new sort of pickled ham. Isn't it wonderful how they give samples of everything?

"Now that there seems to be nothing else to eat at sight it just occurs to me that you've had nothing to drink. Come with me instantly and we'll get some soda water."

"Really, Mr. Smith, that's very kind of you, indeed, and I shall avail myself of it. I'll take some ice cream soda with fruit flavors, raspberry and pineapple mixed."

"This store certainly ought to sell a great deal, they are so generous with their samples," said Mr. Smith as they sipped the soda."

"Oh, it pays them to be so."

Three days later on Mr. Brown's veranda Mr. Smith asked, "Well, Miss Brown, have you bought any of those goods you tried when we were down town?"

"I guess not," she replied. "How could you expect me to when the samples made me so sick?"—Chicago Times-Herald.

SOLIDAY REINSTATED.

A Disharmonious Mail Carrier Again Takes Into the Ranks of the Postoffice.

Today Postmaster Page received instructions from Washington to reinstate John A. Solday to the service as a substitute letter carrier and to place him at the head of the substitute list. Solday was dismissed by Postmaster Rockhill August 21, 1893, on the grounds of "physical disability." Mr. Solday assumes his duties at once. This appointment does not release any of the other substitutes, but setsthem back one notch.

LOWER INSURANCE.

Rates of Insurance Reduced in Fort Wayne.

Local Agents are Now Being Notified by Mr. Graves—Some Cut Down Ten and Fifteen Per Cent.

C. L. Graves, of the local board of underwriters, is today notifying the fire insurance agents of a reduction of rates to take effect at once. This reduction is general throughout the state and is brought about by the consolidation of the Insurance League and Insurance Union. The former past the local agents 25 and the latter 15 per cent. of the policies written. Recently the league went into the union, which is now composed of more than 100 companies, and the policy holders in any of those companies get the benefit of the reduction.

There is a reduction of ten cents in the rate on dwellings and contents, and on private barns connected therewith, provided no brick building shall be rated at less than thirty cents and no frame less than forty cents.

On churches, school houses and other public buildings, except penitentiaries, work houses, county poor houses and insane asylums, there is a reduction of fifteen cents in the rate.

There is also a reduction of fifteen cents in the rate on all brick mercantile buildings (but not on the contents) occupied solely for mercantile, public hall, office and dwelling purposes, except in Indianapolis, where a similar reduction has already been made.

The reductions apply only to policies held in cities and towns where efficient fire departments are maintained, and do not apply to farm property, or towns without water works or fire departments. Cities and towns are classified as follows:

Class No. 1—Cities having first class waterworks, either gravity water works or direct pressure system, paid fire departments, fire alarm telegraph, good police regulations, paved streets at least sixty feet wide in business portion.

Class No. 2—Cities having waterworks similar in construction to No. 1, but of less capacity, paid or mostly paid fire department or more than one steam fire engine, good public water supply by iron pipes or public cisterns, fire alarm telegraph, good police regulations, paved streets at least sixty feet wide in business portion.

Class No. 3—Towns having only one steam fire engine or hand engines, or so-called water works, supplied by elevated tanks, paid or volunteer fire department, streets not less than sixty feet wide.

Note—Chemical engines or hook and ladder trucks, or bucket brigade, while of some benefit and deserving of encouragement, are not regarded as of sufficient value to warrant a specific reduction therefor.

It is understood that the above reductions apply only to policies written on and after today.

All W. R. C. women are requested to meet at hall this evening, at 7:30, and at same place at 9 tomorrow morning, to attend the funeral of Captain White. By order of president.

FRUIT HOUSE CLOSED.

The White Fruit House will be closed on Monday and Tuesday and will reopen Wednesday morning. WHITE FRUIT HOUSE CO.
